

Grade 10 went on location for their...

LAND ART PROJECT

Taking the work of artists such as Richard Long and Andy Goldsworthy (below) as inspiration and a starting-point, Grade 10 developed their own Land Art pieces.

Andy Goldsworthy, Aldeney Stones Installation
<http://visualmelt.com/Andy-Goldsworthy>

One group scouting for the right location...

The students documented their work on film and presented the results in an exhibition in the Assembly Hall, to parents, teachers and students.

It was important to document everything, as the projects were temporary...

The groups speculated on how or by whom their artworks would be encountered.

Also, how long would be their life-span...

Those who worked collaboratively found group input expanded the creative process