

Performing Arts Internships at Berlin Cosmopolitan School

Music & Dance

Berlin Cosmopolitan School is looking for creative and passionate individuals to join our international team working with young children in the field of Music & Dance. The interns will assist our Performing Arts teachers with specialised lessons and clubs for young children up to the age of 6. You will learn about the Music Learning Theory of Edwin Gordon and how these principles are applied practically within music classes. You will gain experience of a diverse dance curriculum that encourages children to develop and explore movement and music in innovative ways across a number of dance disciplines. You will explore the connections between music and dance pedagogy and how a transdisciplinary approach to teaching creative subjects facilitates learning beyond the sphere of the performing arts.

Internship Applicants must be proficient singers with either dance experience or ability to play a musical instrument to a high standard. An interest in both is an advantage, as well as an open minded and playful approach to your work with us. Language skills in English or German to a fluent level are required, bilingual applicants are desirable.
